

SOME CIVIL WAR SOLDIERS OF NORTHWESTERN MAINE

This list was formerly on line at www.geocities.com/barbour1048/CWsoldiersA-L. It was compiled by barbour1028@yahoo.com.

Sources used were Ancestry.com (Census, pensions, service records), civilwardata.com (service records), the Franklin County usgenweb.com page (cemeteries), and local histories and genealogies, including Shirley Adams' Rangeley Allied Families, the Thompson genealogy of Freeman and the Gould history of Farmington.

Daniel Witham Abbott was born in Lexington on April 26, 1845, the son of Richard Wing Abbott and Susan (Davis) Abbott. He enlisted from Dead River in Company K, 9th Maine Infantry, on September 16, 1864, and was discharged at Raleigh, NC, on June 30, 1865. He was married first to Esther Ann Ricker of Eustis (1845-1889), and in 1870 they lived in Eustis Plantation with two young daughters. After her death, he married Arvilla Landers of Kingfield (1850-1900) in 1891; they lived in Kingfield in 1900. He married Elizabeth Bangs Whitney (1858-1905) in 1902; and Beatrice Higgins (1873-1952) in 1909. He and Beatrice lived on Rochester Street in Westbrook in 1920. He died on August 25, 1927, in Farmington and is buried in the Strong Village Cemetery with Beatrice.

David Blake Abbott, the second son of Richard and Hannah Abbott, was born in Tuftonboro, New Hampshire, in 1816. He married Betsy Peary, daughter of Moses Peary, on April 12, 1839. In 1840 he was a farmer living in Dallas Plantation with his wife and their infant son. In 1850 he was a farmer with six children living in Sandy River. In 1860 he and his wife and their nine children were in Embden, where he owned a farm valued at $500. On December 10, 1861, Abbott enlisted from Sandy River Plantation in Company E, 13th Maine Infantry with his brother and his son John. He was discharged from the Army on January 6, 1865, a few months before the end of the war. He applied for a pension on December 27 of that year. In 1870, he and his wife and five children lived in Sandy River, where he owned a farm valued at $600. They moved to Anson sometime before 1880. David Abbott died on September 24, 1910, and is buried in North Anson with his wife.

John A. Abbott, the third child and second son of David Blake Abbott, was born in Sandy River in 1844. He lived with his parents and worked on their farm until he enlisted with his father and uncle in Company E, 13th Maine Infantry, on December 10, 1861. He was discharged from the 13th because of disability on April 11, 1862. On December 11, 1863, he and his brother and his cousin enlisted from Rangeley in Company F, 2nd Maine Cavalry. John A. Abbott died of disease on September 24, 1864, at Barrancas, Florida, and is buried in the Barrancas National Cemetery (Plot 5-0-425).

John Gardner Abbott, the oldest child of Richard and Hannah Abbott, was born in Wolfboro, New Hampshire, on October 18, 1812. He married Huldah Peary, daughter of Moses Peary, on April 2, 1835. In 1840, they lived in Dallas Plantation with three children. By 1850 they were in Sandy River Plantation with six children, and in 1860 John Abbott was a farmer in Sandy River with eight children at home. He was one of the wealthiest of the region's Civil War soldiers before the war, with real estate and personal assets totaling $1,200 in 1860. (Abner Toothaker, the wealthiest man in Rangeley, was worth $17,500 in 1860, and hired a substitute to serve for him). Abbott enlisted from Rangeley in Company E, 13th Maine Infantry, with his brother and nephew on December 10, 1861. He was discharged from the Army because of disability on July 31, 1863, and he applied for a pension in December of that year. In 1870, Abbott was a farm laborer living in Rangeley with his wife and their three youngest children. By 1880 he had moved to Aroostook County and was a farmer living in Caribou with his wife and three children. He died in Caribou on February 2, 1886.

Moses P. Abbott, the oldest son of John G. and Huldah Abbott, was born on May 14, 1838 and lived with his parents in Sandy River in 1860. He married Phoebe T. Hoar, daughter of David and Betsy Hoar, on March 14, 1861. He enlisted from Rangeley in Company F, 2nd Maine Cavalry, with his cousins on December 11, 1863. Moses Abbott was mustered out with the 2nd Maine Cavalry on December 6, 1865, at Barrancas, Florida. In 1870 he owned a farm in Rangeley valued at $600 and lived there with his wife and three children. Like his father, Moses moved to Aroostook County, and in 1880 he lived in Caribou with his wife and six children. He applied for a pension on May 4, 1880. He died sometime before November, 1911, the date that his widow applied for a pension. She died in 1929. Moses Abbott and his wife are buried in the School House Cemetery in Rangeley.

Richard Abbott, the oldest child of David Blake Abbott, was born on April 5, 1840 in Dallas Plantation. He lived with his parents and worked on their farm in Embden in 1860. He married Flora Day about 1860. On September 21, 1861 he enlisted from Sandy River in Company F, 9th Maine Infantry. The 9th Maine served in the Carolinas and southern Virginia, and was engaged in several battles including Fort Wagner, Cold Harbor and the siege of Petersburg. It was one of the regiments with Sherman's army at the surrender of Johnston's Confederate army in North Carolina. During its service, 182 soldiers of the 9th Maine were killed or mortally wounded in action and 239 men died of disease. Richard Abbott re-enlisted in the 9th Maine on January 12, 1864, and was wounded at Petersburg on June 30. He was discharged on August 3, 1865 and applied for a pension on October 2, 1868. In 1870 Abbott and his wife lived in Kingfield with three children. At that time, he was a farmer who owned real estate valued at $1800 and claimed another $1120 in personal assets. Abbott's first wife died on November 23 1875. He married Ella H. Walker on July 4, 1876. In 1880 he was a farmer in Anson with his wife and six children. He obtained a homestead in Minnesota in 1883 and was living there in 1910. In 1930 at the age of 90 he was living in Moose Lake, Minnesota, with his son William. He died there on March 20, 1932.
